Lincoln's Letter to the Springfield Mceting.

We publish this fetter entire this morning, the telegraph report being very imperfect. It fense of his conduct of the war that has apable. There is no evasion at all of the issue. Peace, all want peace. The people South want peace, may be, and the people North they can't realize their wishes, for the rebel army bas the power. Parties will only engage to do what they can't perform. As to compromise, the President declares that he has no knowledge or belief that any compromise is possible with these who have the power, the physical fores. With others no compromise would avail. Right here is the weak point in all this. The de facto Government of the Southern Confederacy and the army have no motive to suggest a compromise; for they legislation of Congress gives to the army of the rebels as well as the people the very strongest motives men can have to resist to the lest, and to dely an enemy that designs to indict such penalties. What more can they lose by fighting to the last than they must lose by abandoning the contest? Not long ago, A. H. Stephens, the Vice President of the Southern Confederacy, desired to go to Washington and was repulsed. He was a Urion man till his State secoded in spite of him. We have seen no reason to doubt that he entertains the same sentiment to-day that he did in 1800, and which he then so eloquently expressed. We know what the ostensible object of his intended visit was; but no one believes it was the real object. If there is a man Seuth to talk to about a compromise, Stephens is the man. Why did the Cabinet refuse to see him or to confer with hlm at all? What is dignity in such a case? It is not worth the life of a single brave man. Here was a chance, perbaps, to confer with those who have the power that was rejected. After all, this army that dominates over the South rests upon : sentiment at home, and that is rendered to the last degree hostile to the Government of the United States, by the remorseless penalties hanging over their heads. They support the army to save themselves from these pen altles. They will not beg a compromise from enemies. Unfortunately, the whole tone of the President's supporters stimulate the most grocs, we are at a less to see where a warrant the fudependencla. s found for the practice. If the people South stitution, private property cannot be taken under the protection of the Constitution, they are under no obligations to obey it. If the people Sonth are alien enemies, it is not in than to fevy contributions npon them; it is not lawful to confiscate private property. If the Government may treat the rebels either as eltizens or aliens, in elther case there is no warrant for taking any species of private property, except by due process of law, or by levying contributions according to the usages of war. Read the dellberations of the Federal Convention, and reflect how a proposition authorizing the Government to arm the slaves, in case of rebellion, would have been received. What, to enstaln the anthority of the Federal Government, is it lawful to defy the Constitntion and laws of States? They are a part of onr system of Government recegnized in the Federal Constitution. We had just as well defy the Constitution and laws of the United States under the "guisc" of supporting them.

The effectiveness of this policy in war remains to be seen. It may add to the physical force on one side, and may be it will add more on the other. One thing is certain: it will make the resistance to the Government more desperate, and a compromise more improbable.

The policy seems to contemplate only the angmentation of the physical force to break down resistance, while it augments the resistence to the last Item of its power that desperation can bring to bear.

no power to resist left in the South-not a remnant. To accomplish this, how much force will be required and how long must lt bc used? We hear of the demoralization of the rebel army, and of frequent desertions. We often hear of a disposition of the people where our army goes to give up the contest. Then we hear that these stories are exaggerated; that these who talk peace when our armiles are about are for war as soon as the armics are not present; that some of these deserters are spies, and that more escape and go back again. In short, we don't know, as matters stand, whether the Union has any friends in the seceded States outside of the lines of onr armies. We have success, but no restoration that we know of. As long as we employ only force, we do not know that it will be otherwise. We may win victorles; but as soon as the pressure is off, there is the enemy again. All over the South, wherever we have not a military force, there is an ene my. Whilst this conflict of brute force goes on, atrocities will be committed, such as that of Wytheville, Va., at Osecola, Mo., and at Lawrence, in Kansas, that will sink deep into the meantime, we cannot overlook the danger

Would it not be wise now, before we have have a little wisdom along with brute force; not to tempt despair until endnrance finds he'p that it will tax all cur brute ferce to me't, with a very distant hope of final victory in the cause? The policy to which this letter looks is to provoke all the resistance possible, to be continued as long as possible. Vattel then goes on to state that though arms, &c., may be thus sold without any vioof war, and therefore subject to capture and confiscation; and he concludes thus:

To avoid, therefore, perpetual subjects for complaint and rupture, it has been exceed, in a manuer entirely grounded on true principles, that the powers at war may seize and confiscate all contraband goods which neutral persons shall attempt to carry to their enemy, without any complaint from the soverging of those increhants; as, on the other hand, the power at war does not impute to the central sovereigns those practices of their subjects. Santissima Tripidada. This case was of a Baltimore vessel, built for a privateer and known as the Monmouth. She was armed and sent to Buenos Ayres and sold in 1816. In Octo- tious. ber, 1817, she returned to Baltimore under the name of Indepen deneia, and received an augmentation of her crew and the addition of an aimed tender. These vessels captured the Spanish merchantman Santissima Triuidada, and sent goods taken from her to this country. Suit was brought by the Spanish Consul for restitution of the goods, and the libels contained two counts; first, the orleinal country. tained two counts: first, the original equip- starve ment, &c., of the capturing vessel in our ports,

Supposing, therefore, the voyege to have been for commercial purposes, and the sele of Buenos Ayres to have been a bena fide sale (and there is nothing in the evidence be-fore us to contradict it), there is no presense to cay that the original outfit on the was illegal, or that a capture made after the sale was, for that cause aloue, illegal.

It is asserted that this opinion of Judge Story is an "obiter doctrine," but the facts of the case disprove this. Enough is proved to show that Great Britain has some color of law in its act; and it should be taken into consideration in our judgment of her.

President Lincoln's Letter.

EXECUTIVE MANSION,)

WASHINGTON, August 26. }
To Hon. James C. Conklin:
MY DEAR SIR - Your letter inviting me to MY DEAR Sin - Your letter inviting me to attend a mass meeting of unconditional Union men, to be held at the Capital of Illinois on the 3d day of September, has been received. It would be very agreeable to me thus to meet my old friends at my own home, but I cannot just now be absent from this city so long as a visit there would require. The long as a visit there would require. The meeting is to be of all those who maintain unconditional devotion to the Union, and I am sure that my old political friends will thank me for tendering as I do the nation's gratitude to those other nob'e men waom no patican malles or partisan hope can make false to the mallee or partisan hope can make talse to the not have it. But how can be seen are but three conceivable ways:

lieve that any compromise embracing the mainte ance of the Union is now possible. All that I learn leads to a directly opposite be-lief. The strength of the rebeltion is in its militry-its aimy. That dominates all the country and all the people within its range. Any offer of terms made by any man or men ever to enforce their alde of a compromise i one were made with them.

To illustrate: Suppose that the re'ngees from the South, and prace men at the North meet tokether in convention and frame and proclaim a compromise emeracing a restoration of the Union, in what way can that comvania, and I think can ultimately drive it of of existence; but no paper compromise to which the controllers of General Lee's army are not agreed, can at all affect that army. In an effort at such compremises we would waste time which the enemy would improve to our disadvantage, and that would be all. A compromise to be effect ive must be made either with those who con-trol the rebel army or with the people, first liberated from the domination of that army trelling it in relation to any peace compromise has ever come to my knewledge or belief. All charges and intimations to the contrary are deceptive and groundles and I promise you that if any such pro-ocition shall herealter come it shall no be kept secret from you. I think that the Coustitu-tion vests the Commander-in-Chief with the law of war in times of war. The most that can be said, if so nuch, is that slaves are property. Is there—has there ever been any questic a that by the laws of war property, both of enemies and friends, may be taken, when needed, and is it not needed whenever taking it helps us or burts the enemy? Effects of the Cotton Famine-What the Registrar-General of England Says.

The last quarterly report of the Registrar-General of England embodies, in addition to the ordinary record of births, marriages and deaths, an interesting account of the effect of the cotton familie in Lancashire on the health of the population. It appears that, notwith-standing the distress which has prevailed in the cotton districts since the beginning of the war in the United States, the mertaity in most of the districts is considerably below the average of former years. In some dis-tricts, such as the city of Manchester and the "Unions" of Sulford and Charlton, the deaths hand, there is a decrease in Ashton, Preston and Chorley, and other places, amounting to about twenty per cent.

The report of the Registrar suggests the probability that fewer deaths have been registered in many districts in consequence of the emigration or removal of the inhabitants; for donbtless many villages beside Belmont by the Times that Quartermaster General Meigs had been removed by being seut the exile on inspection duty is true.

The statement made by ns that the Chief of the Ordinance bureau had also been removed is likewise true. Another great burean of the War Department will soon have young blood injected into its administration.

THE RELIEF FUNDS. The leading facts in the financial history of he cotton distress may be stated in a few words:

The number of persons dependent on the parochial rates and relief lunds was 520,000 before Christmas, 1862, when the maximum was attained; at the crit of June it was reduced to 256,250. Nearly half the burden is at the present time removed. The expenditure from both sources in December was £380,225. It was reduced in June to 2102,241. The less of factory wases per week at the end twelve months from the 30th of June, 1862 to the same period in 1863, was about £1,076, 413, of which amount £1,074,413 was derived from relief funds, and 1022 000 expended on the out door indigent only, from parochial rates.

The improvement in the cettoa districts, by which forty-seven local committees have en enabled to suspend operations, has arisen from various causes—the emigration or removal of operatives, the increase of While preparations were going on, the out-door work, the partial revival of ludus-try. The available of the sixty wilder from which the ruin of the management of t The steamer Progress has just arrived from White river. From Captain Sweat, her commander, I have gained the following intellion which former prosperity was based. Present alleviations of the distress will, some of ent alleviations of the distress will, some of them, cose when summer and autumn have passed. Private savings are spont, credit ex-hausted, relief funds diminished. Therefore, it is not reasonable to anticipate that, though the discress of the approaching winter may visit fewer hearths, its severity, where it falls, may be greater, because the means of relieving it may be less.

The Secretary of the Central Relief Committee at Manchester reported, at a meeting held three weeks since, that the state of employment has not materially improved. There are, however, over two hundred and thirly-five thousand operatives now working on full time. The following are the official figures as presented in the Secretary's report:

As might naturally be expected, there is a turther might naturally be expected, there is a turther diminution in the recipients of relief, there being now 25,812 fewer persons relieved by the focal committees only, and 16,303 less by the guardians. There are now 78,980 persons not in receipt of parochial relief who are aided by local committees, and 136,125 persons receiving outdoor relief from the guardians, 50,718 of whom have supplementary allowances from the local committees. Thus there are now 214,115 persons still in receipt of relief. The mouthly expenditure of the de.

OUTDOOR EMPLOYMENT.

It is gratifying to find, by the following ex-tract from the Secretary's statement, that the operatives for whom outdoor work has been found, willingly embrace the opportunities afforded them for earning their own living:
"During the past three months I have been making careful inquiries as to the general health of the population, and its moral con-dition as regards legitimacy and orlame, upon which subjects I expect shortly to be able to lay before you a valuable return. I am happy, however, to state that so far the information received has been most eatle-factory. It is pleasing to flud that wherever ontdoor employment has been provided by the local committee, the operatives have soon become not only skilled in their new occupation, but their physical condition has been greatly improved; and there is little doubt that the works about to be undertaken, under the provisions of the recent ac, will largely enuribute to an equally beneficial result."

ATTEMPTED ESCAPS OF A PRISONER.-AS Sheriff John Wollen and deputy Boyles, of Rockport, were coming up the river yesterday on the Hetty Gilmore, having in charge the notorious Tom Rice, lately sentenced to the notorious Tom Rice, lately sentenced to the penitentiary from Speneer county for robbery, they had quite as adventure with their prisoner. At a point difteen miles below this city, the handcaff was removed from one of Rice's hands, for a supposed sufficient reason; but during his temporary release he was closely watched by Mr. Boyies. Of a sudden, when Mr. B.'s attention was directed from him Rice spranging the the river and swam for blin, Riez sprang into the river and swam for the Kentucky shore. Mr. Boyles pursued in the boat's yawl as soon as it could be lowered; but Riec reached the shore first, fully two hundred yards below Mr. B. Then commenced a race of the most exciting character. The prisoner's clothes, were wet and heavy. The prisoner's clothes were wet and beavy and impeded his movements—still he held his own pretty well. Mr. B. finally gained on him, and when about eighty yards distant fired at the retreating rescal, missing him, however. A negro came along on horseback, meeting the prisoner, about this time, and like purpose a bline described to him. thee, running up to him, demanded the horse, the negro replied: "Not 'exactly, you d-d ebel," and by inpeding his progress enabled Boyles to overtake and capture him.

MEETING OF TOBACCO MANUFACTURERS, At a meeting of the tobacco manufacturers of this city, held Wednesday morning at the Louisville Tobacco Warehouse, Mr. Burge was called to the chair and D. M. Anderson as pipolined secretary.

The chair explained the object of the meeting, namely: To consider the importance and practicability of calling a convention of the tobacco manufacturers of the West, in order that some uniform regulations may be established that will give reliability to the weights of manufactured tobacco throughout the country.

The chair remarked that it would be well to have the co-operation of the Northern manufacturers, as he was aware of the interest they had in such a movement.

NO MAN 8 NAME IS MORE INTIMATELY CONuected with the history of the Materia Medica of the United States, or more favorably known as a pioneer in medical discovery, than that of Dr. JOHN BULL, of Loulaville, Ey. His inimitable preparation of Sarsayarilla, has long stood at the head of the various compounds of that valuable drug. His Computed Petronal, or Wille Cherker, has become a household word throughout the West and South; and his Worm Locat ges, in iese than a year after their introduction attained a repnation as wide apread as the continent of North America. But the crowning glory of his life remains to be artained in his latest discovery, or rather combination, for he does not claim to have been the discoverer of CEDRON, which is the basis of the bitters inow offered to the public. Teat hour belongs to the native linabltants of Central America, to whom its virtues have been known for more than two hundred years. Arned with it the Indian bilds defiance to the most deadly malara, and handles with ut fear, the wost venomous serpen's.
It is a belief with them that white there is breath left in the body the Cedron is potent to cure, no natter what the disease may be.

TISDEL & NASH'S Patent Attachment

FOR BURNING

THIS IS AN ARTICLE WHICH, ON ACCOUNT OF ITS UTILITY, SIM plicity and equanty, has been very properly termed "the best thing of the kind over invested," by the application of which to any common find lamp, you can horn kerosene or Colliti, withoutsmake or smell, while more light is obtained from a given quantum I toll than with any other burner. With one of these burners applied to any find lamp it may be moved rapidly about, or even carried out of doors, wishout the light being extinguished.

WHAT THEY SAY OF IT.

A VALUARI INVENTION.—One of the best, and at the same time, most simple contrivances for hurning Kenosene Oil in a common fluid lamp. It is so almost that any child can apply it, and it will burn Kerosene Oil in any fluid lamp with out even changing the whiching. It is one of the neatest things that has come nucler our notice, and is destined to become very popular with always many times it is cost in a few months, and for portable or night lamps it appears to be the ne plus ultru.—(Syracuse Courier and Union.

[From the Scientific American.]

It accomplishes the object very perfectly, and dispenses with the amoy ance and expense of the Incorvenient chimney. A free and steady I shi, without smoke, is obtained, when a good quality of oil is used. The internet is slandy slaped over this, and can be easily adjusted to any fluid lamp; thus equipped, coal oil can be borned in it as readily as fluid. The borner is slandy slaped over this, and can be easily adjusted to any fluid lamp; thus equipped, coal oil can be borned in it as readily as fluid. The borner should be allowed to proceed above the top of the tube a distance equal to the diameter of it, or about 3-bof an inch: and the whise, composing the attachment, must be separated, so as to allow the division to be just equal to the size of the tube. These lamps are very convenient for house hold purposes, as they can be carried in the hund in araughts or currents of air without being extinentials. "It is an aim rable invention, pr', Sects the purpose in the simplest pos-tible manner. These burners a country into universal use."—[Rechested Pairy Culon. "It is a very simple contrivance, and entirely effectual, and has a rapid and extensive sale,"—[Labress.

Other journals speak in like terms, and the most fattering testimonials are being constantly received rom agents and others as to their efficiency and economy; In fact they have carned for themselves a widespread reputation.

The article never fails to commend itself to all who see it in operation.

Th's mil' is heavier than other mills of the same size, in I the extra weight is placed at points so as to prevent he possibility of breakage, and all the brass journal-boxes can be taken out, cleaned, repaired, oiled, &c., and replaced without the least trouble of taking the mill on pleces (as is the case with all other mills which have not this improvement). The simplicity and nea ness, somblined with strength, speaks for itself. And all who are meed this mill do not hesitate in saying it is the set mill in use.
